FALL 2009

Note from Shelia...

“How much longer will you go on letting your energy sleep?
How much longer are you going to stay oblivious of the immensity of yourself?”

Don't lose time in conflict:

Lose no time in doubt-

Time can never be recovered and if you miss an opportunity,
It may take many lives before another comes your way again!”

-Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh

One of my practices is to read an inspirational quote before I start my day. This is the one I read this morning and it woke up something in me that had been sleeping for a few months now. Like so many of you, I have been feeling tired, lethargic and slightly 'out of sink'. It was easy to tell myself that it was the eclipses, the energy shifts, the hot weather, the economy, my bills, and on and on and on. The truth is I was creating these feelings myself by giving away my power to a force that has hold of our world right now. A force that each of us is feeding every time we focus on lack, doubt, uncertainty, and fear of the future.

I am no longer willing to lose time in conflict with myself. This only creates doubts that deep within I know are lies. Lying to myself is much easier than actually taking responsibility for the dramas I create each moment with my thoughts. When I listen to the 'God Within' I realize who I am and what I can truly accomplish in this lifetime. It just takes stopping the self-talk and allowing the dream to come into the now moment.

I am not willing to wait 'many life times' to realize the power that dwells within. The time is now to experience every opportunity with awareness that I am the Master of my Manifested reality in every moment. I'm listening...are you!

In Oneness,

Message from Mother Mary

Through Gigli Armsby-Ward, July 2009

The Importance of Genuine Spiritual Wisdom

If something is spiritually understood, it is always genuine, or it would not be named spiritual.
Therefore, we can dispense with the word 'Genuine.'

When you connect with Spirit, all answers are given in that moment.

Spiritual wisdom is the goal of all souls.

To wake to Spirit brings wisdom to be whole.

A connection with the Cosmos.

Your place in the Universe is dependent on the resonance of your soul.

The rate you beat is attracted to the rate you beat.

Like attracting Like.

To gain this expansion is a journey that is chosen by you, bringing you to experiences here and in other worlds that will inform, expand, educate, and in essence raise your vibration by this understanding.

The Spiritual Wisdom gained is the opening up to the healing benefits of higher knowing.

Stillness, meditation are avenues into ourselves.

Giving time to understand the rhythm,

the expansion of our hearts into a loving acceptance of our souls.

To belong, to go home.

In response to the intricate crop circles this year...

In England's fair land,
In fields of ripe corn,
Spirit appears in glorious ways,
Intricate patterns of geometric shapes,
inform us of other Beings.

Connection of the most high,
to aid us in the understanding,
of who we are and our present position
in the Cosmos.
Beautifully arrayed.

Why do we doubt such perfection,
such knowledge and confirmation?
What stops us accepting brothers from afar,
offering a hand,
to lift us into bliss.

Sit in the circles, feel the emotion.
Every emotion is revealed and dealt with,
in a spectacular outpouring of hidden feelings.
Now exorcised and understood.
Now balanced.

Now cleared, further understandings of a higher possible connection,
can be realized.

A joining of like minds attracted to each other,
for the beneficent raising of consciousness.

We are offered pearls,
but we ridicule.
We are offered solutions,
but we scoff.
We are offered bliss,
but we deny it.

When we truly awaken,
and know that our space brothers are here.
We will welcome them humbly,
lovingly, in the knowing that they are Us coming to remind Us of who We are.

Greetings from Menita

Greetings Masters,

It is my understanding that many of you are having dramas that are causing havoc in your lives. Where is your focus? Are you listening to your self-talk? Are you allowing the social conscious dramas of main-stream life to rule your thoughts and steal your power?

Only you can place your thoughts in the order that will create joy in your life. If you are giving away your power to the ego mind then you will continue to create the same dramas that have been plaguing you for centuries.

Own your power, Masters! Looking outside yourselves for the answers to your dramas only create more of the same. What would happen if you stopped the voice in your head and began to listen to the voice in your heart? Who's talking!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Your God-voice comes from deep within your heart and is waiting to be heard. Start listening to your heart and take the action that will manifest into the life you know you are.

You say, "But Menita...I am listening (whining). It is the way of the times right now with the economy in shambles and life running out of control. My energy is low and my joy has been depleted!" All I can say is "So Be It!" What you say creates and if that is your desire to have a run away life, then more power to you. Who am I or any other Master to stop you? Only you can stop the direction of the life you have become.

You are Masters who made a brave choice to return to this plane of existence at this time in history. Stop complaining and stand up for your truth. You have read every book, listened to hundreds of lectures, and spoken to every imaginable expert on what to do to be the enlightened being you know you are. What would happen if you just stopped and listened to your own God?

Utilizing the Energies & Technology of Ancient Egypt to Heal

By Samone Myers

The more we awakened, the more we remember of our time in Ancient Egypt. After Atlantis, Ancient Egypt became a mecca for multiple civilizations coming together to preserve Universal law and knowledge. In recent years, researchers have discovered ancient energies and technologies that we are now able to utilize as healing modalities. Some examples include:

1. Rev. Mary & Dean Hardy have spent years traveling, studying and working with the energy effects of pyramids and how they can be tuned to resonate with obelisks to create 'standing columnar waves' which can alter weather patterns. More importantly, they were able to create energy that formed a double helix out of the top of a pyramid excited with a Tesla coil (see photo). This research has led them to make discoveries about what Mary calls 'tachy ions' and radionics, which all have health benefits from vibrating at high frequencies.

2. Doug Benjamin is an energy researcher who has investigated geometric angles derived from Ancient Egyptian sources and actual experiments. These angles are basically 3-sided pyramids (2 dimensional), which correspond to specific organs of the body. The resonance created with this sacred geometry converts the stress lines into a more useful form of energy to the body from about 350 to 500 feet above and below the level of the rods. This method supplants placing L-rods straddling the center core of the Hartmann and geopathic lines. It also obviates the necessity of being a master dowser. This technique enhances the use of and is a great extension for Feng Shui. Many have described health dysfunctions disappearing after the rods were installed simply due to decreased stress. When properly used, they can improve the energy level and thus the health of the targeted organ.

3. Dan A. Davidson has researched "Shape power," the ability of multi-dimensional shapes to manipulate the "aether"--the local space energy field, which permeates all space and time. In particular his research has studied the effects of geometrical shapes manipulating the aetheric field around them. The prime example of this is the ability of the pyramid shape to collect and focus aetheric energy. The ability of pyramid energy to cause various effects is well documented. Every shape manipulates aether in some manner. A cone is an example of an infinite sided pyramid and as such will do many of the same things which a simple pyramid does. The American Indian teepee is an example of a near conic shape which has many of the same energy effects as the pyramid. This book will explore how different shapes manipulate the aether and how Shape Power can be used by you to enhance your life, your home, office, and your general well being.

4. The Rods of Ra (highlighted in picture) are based on the powerful technology of a galvanic couple or voltaic couple. The galvanic or voltaic effect is based on the principal of producing an electrical effect or current using a chemical reaction. Two dissimilar conductors (copper and zinc) in contact with (the body) or in the same electrolytic solution, results in a difference of potential between them. Copper and zinc are a galvanic or voltaic couple. This action then creates a 'Voltaic Battery,' which consists of pieces of dissimilar metals, such as copper and zinc, arranged in pairs, and subjected to the action of a saline or acid solution (the body), by which a current of electricity is generated whenever the two poles, or ends of the series, are connected by a conductor (the body). The resulting electromagnetic reaction appears to act beneficially on the blood which is made up of electrically charged particles.

Raia is an energy healer who used her foundation as a Reiki Master to tap into sacred Egyptian Healing energies. She has been working in the energetic field since 1991 and has developed a unique way to work on the cellular level. Healing is the reconstruction of that which has been damaged or is out of alignment, and is accomplished by the reorganization of energy patterns. Healing then occurs by the creation of an orderly pattern of energy which is aligned with the Life Force.

If there are blockages or negativity within or around the body, Raia slowly releases them. Like the conductor of an unseen orchestra, Raia raises her hands in spontaneous gestures or mudras ~ aligning and balancing the energies of her client. DURING YOUR TREATMENT Raia contacts, receives, and aligns to high vibrations specific to your needs. She does her healing in person, and offers 'distant' Healing.

Pharaohs' Tombs May Disappear, Egypt Warns

Riad Abu Awad, AFP

Valley of the Kings

Aug. 19, 2009 -- The ornate pharaonic tombs in Egypt's Valley of the Kings are doomed to disappear within 150 to 500 years if they remain open to tourists, the head of antiquities has warned. Humidity and fungus are eating into the walls of the royal tombs in the huge necropolis on the west bank of the Nile across from Luxor, which is swamped daily by several thousand tourists. Poor ventilation and the breath of the hordes of visitors are causing damage to the carvings and painted decorations inside the tombs, he told journalists on a tour of the royal necropolis on Monday. Ancient Fortress City Unearthed in Egypt

Rossella Lorenzi, Discovery News Ancient Fortress

July 14, 2009 -- Egyptian archaeologists digging near the Suez Canal have discovered the remains of what is believed to be the largest fortress in the eastern Delta, Egypt's Minister of Culture, Farouk Hosni, announced. Located at the site of Tell Dafna, between El-Manzala Lake and the Suez Canal, the remains reveal the foundation of a military town about 15 kilometers (nine miles) northeast of the city of western Qantara.

"The fortress covers an area of about 380 by 625 meters (1,247 by 2,051 feet), while the enclosure wall is about 13 meters (43 feet) in width," Mohamed Abdel Maksoud, head of the Central Department of Lower Egyptian Antiquities and the director of the mission, said in a statement. One of the forts on the "Ways of Horus", an ancient military and trade route that connected Egypt with the East, Daphnae is mentioned by the Greek historian Herodotus (484-425 B.C.), who described it as Psammetichus I's guard post "against the Arabians and Assyrians."
